Character Counts

<http://charactercounts.org>

The Character Counts organization is a nonprofit, nonpartisan, nonsectarian character education framework whose goal is to teach the six pillars of character: trustworthiness, respect, responsibility, fairness, caring, and citizenship. A coalition includes thousands of schools, communities, and nonprofit organizations. They offer training seminars, teaching tools, materials, character awards, and discussion forums.

Committee for Children

www.cfchildren.org

This website provides information about social and emotional learning in the form of featured articles, current news, events, and training. Various programs are described, including a violence prevention curriculum, bullying prevention program, and personal safety curriculum. There is information about research on social and emotional issues, support for educators, and resources for parents and advocates.

Conscious Discipline

<http://consciousdiscipline.com/default.asp>

Conscious Discipline is a comprehensive classroom management program and a social-emotional curriculum. It is based on current brain research, information on child development, and developmentally appropriate practices. Conscious Discipline makes changes in the lives of adults first. The adults, in turn, change the lives of children. The seven powers and the seven skills taught in the program enhance adults' social-emotional intelligence in perceptible ways. Conscious Discipline teaches relationship skills that help adults in all of the interactions so that improvement is seen at home with family, at work with colleagues, and at school with children. The website provides information about workshops offered, products, success stories, and discipline tips.

Love and Logic
